November 17, 2011: "A Life of Service"

Q&A with James "Duke" Aiona, Jr.

Former Hawai'i Lieutenant Governor Duke Aiona has dedicated his life to serving the people of Hawai'i. Born and raised in Hawai'i, he has served as a city prosecutor, city attorney, state judge, and from 2002-2010 as Lieutenant Governor. Throughout his career, Duke has led the fight against crime and illegal drugs while working to strengthen Hawai'i's families and promote Hawai'i's businesses. Duke now serves as executive vice president of development and enrollment at Saint Louis School, his alma mater, working to equip tomorrow's leaders with the quality education they need to succeed today.
